

Tozour Energy Systems Receives Industry Honors for Comcast Center Project

KING OF PRUSSIA, Pa. (March 12, 2009) — Tozour Energy Systems, Inc. a full-service HVAC and building automation provider, was recognized with the Prestige Award at the 2008 Distech Controls Partner Conference in Cancun, Mexico for its work on Philadelphia's Comcast Center.

Distech Controls designs, manufactures and markets innovative building automation solutions, promoting energy and cost efficient operation of buildings, while maintaining optimum comfort. Each Partner Conference, Distech Controls gives the Prestige Award to a partner that worked on an exceptional project. Tozour Energy Systems was chosen for the award from Distech Controls' entire partner network in the Americas.

Tozour was recognized for the work they completed on the Comcast Center, which features a state-of-the-art Distech Controls building automation solution. This system coordinates all of the building's climate, lighting, energy consumption and scheduling through a single integrated source.

Kevin Duffy, COO of Tozour Energy Systems, said "We are proud to be recognized by Distech for our work on the nation's tallest sustainable skyscraper. The Distech Controls building automation system played a key part in ensuring the Comcast Center was a cutting-edge green building."
